Quality Record Sheet Is Required

The supplier must signify conformance to requirements of drawings and specifications by executing the attached "quality records" sheet, signed by an authorized representative of supplier's facility. This sheet and any required certifications must be included with each shipment. Note that no alterations are permitted to the quality records sheet. Every line item must be completed. Initialed data corrections are permitted. Material cannot be accepted by ABL unless the quality records sheet and any required certifications are complete and correctly executed. The supplier and subtier supplier through the supplier, if applicable, shall be responsible for meeting all requirements of drawing(s) and specifications. Actual acceptance inspection and test results must be maintained in supplier's files, subject to examination, indicating inspection, acceptance, and traceability of materials incorporated in the end item in accordance with governing drawings and specifications.
